

COOKIES POLICY (COOKIES)

Cookies policy

To make the site work properly and to improve it to improve your browsing experience, it is necessary to save the minimum amount of information (cookies) on your computer. More than 90% of websites use cookie practices and are required by the rules of the EU Union to request user consent. By using this website, you agree to the use of cookies, whose blocking allows you to view the page, but some of its features will not work.

What is a cookie?

The cookie information is stored on your personal computer at the time you browse the web site you visited. Cookies make it easier to use since they save your settings for the website (language or address) and restart them once again to activate them again. This way, the information is tailored to your needs and the usual ways of using it.

From simple settings information, cookies can also save a large number of personal information (name, email address) that you need to fully access. If you have not enabled them, then cookies can not access the files on your computer. Saving and sending cookies are not visible to you, but you can choose to approve / reject cookies, delete saved cookies, and other cookie related activities in your browser's settings.

How to disable cookies?

Turning cookies does not allow them to be stored on your computer. The cookie settings can be configured and changed in the selected web browser. To see the settings, select the browser you are using (Chrome, Firefox, Internet Explorer 9, Internet Explorer 7 and 8, Opera or Safari). If you disable cookies, you will not be able to use certain functionality of the web site.

What are temporary Cookies?

Temporary cookies, or cookie sessions, are removed from your personal computer at the time you close the web browser you are browsing the web site. With these cookies, pages store temporary data.

What are persistent cookies?

Stored, or saved, cookies remain on your personal computer and after you close your Internet browser. With the help of these cookies, the web site stores information to help you use it. For example, web pages that require a user name and password entry will "" remember your entry that will appear at each new visit. Persistent cookies will remain on your computer for days, months, or years.

What are cookies from the first page?

The first page cookies come from the web page you are browsing and can be temporary or permanent. In this way, web pages store information that will make it easier for you to use it on each new visit to that website.

What are third-party cookies?

Third party cookies on your computer come from other websites that are on the web page you are viewing. These are, for example, pop-up ads, and cookies have the role of tracking web pages for advertising purposes.
